

NATIONAL ASSEMBLY

THE LEGISLATIVE

The legislative power of Seychelles is vested in the National Assembly and is exercised subject to and in accordance with the Constitution. Presently the National Assembly is made up of 25 directly elected members and up to 10 members elected by a scheme of proportional representation based on the results of a general election held at least every five years.

The Members of the National Assembly elect a Speaker and Deputy Speaker from among their own numbers.

The Leader of the Opposition is elected from among the members of the Assembly who are not members of the political party which nominated the incumbent President for election.

The legislative power vested in the National Assembly is exercised by Bills passed by the Assembly and assented to by the President whereupon the Bill becomes a law of Seychelles.
